Aldor is a faction of draenei, formerly led by the Prophet Velen and now led by high priest Yishan. This is an ancient order of priests who revere naaru and who remained in the Blank after the departure of Velen and his followers for Azeroth aboard the Exodar. Like their Scryers rivals, they are dedicated to helping Naar known as Sha'tar in rebuilding the city of Shattrath and defeating the Burning Legion. Characters can join Aldor or Scryer by completing the A'dal circuit quest and the city of light. At the end of the City of Light, loyalty to Aldor becomes available. Completing this quest provides friendly with Aldor, hostile to Scryers, and access to Aldor reputation quests. It is possible that their name comes from the Anglo-Saxon word ealdor, which means life. The story of the lore from the flash scene of Burning Crusade. From the article by Aldor and Skrier Lore and the award, on the World of Warcraft website: Allor is an ancient order of drane priests who revere naara, to this day they help naar, known as Sha'tar in their battle against Illidan and the Burning Legion. Although they suffered a lot at the hands of the blood elves who later became Scryers, they put aside an open war for Sha'tar. The holiest temple of Aldor is on the rise of The Allor, overlooking the city from the west. Reputation for helping to choose between the Allor and Skrier factions can be found in the article Comparison of The Aldor and Skrier's Rewards. Reputation profits with Aldor match 10% more reputation loss with Scryers. All characters begin as neutral with Aldor, with the exception of Draenei and Blood Elf characters. Draenei automatically befriends Aldor and with Scryers, while the characters of the blood elves are automatically unfriendly with Aldor and friendly with Scryers. However, this does not mean that any character is limited or banned from Aldor: they may choose to join Aldor just like any other race of character by completing the 65 Allegiance of Aldor. The strategy before the honorary turn of ten Kil'Jayden Signs to Adien Lightwarden in Aldor Rise will bring Aldor a reputation of 250 pounds. There is also a repeated search for one sign in the corners, which gives a reputation of 25 pounds with Aldor. These signs fall from low-ranking Burning Legion members (mostly Shadow Council affiliated orcs) found in most harvesting regions, including two camps north of Auchindoun in the bone waste of the Terokkar forest. In addition, these quests provide a reputation for Sha'tar: 125 pounds reputation for ten or 12.5 pounds for one turn in players, who completed 65 Loyalty Aldor must turn into 220 marks to achieve deserved status with Aldor, except for the characters Blood Elf, who must turn into 340 marks because of the beginning, as unfriendly with Aldor, and Draenei characters that must turn into only 100 marks because of the beginning how friendly. Players who have not completed allegiance to Aldor due to escape from the Scryers must surrender 360 marks to obtain the deserved status. Players who also wish Kurenai or Mag'har a reputation may prefer killing orcs in Kil'sorrow Fortress in southeast Nagrand, as they give Signs of Kil'Jayden, as well as 10 reputations with Kurenai or Mag'har for murder. As long as Revered and Exalted In addition to completing a faction of specific non-repeat quests, players seeking to achieve revered and sublime status with Aldor can turn into Sign of Sargerass upon reaching level 68. Each turn of ten marks gives a 250 pound reputation with Aldor, and each turn in one sign gives a 25 pound reputation with Aldor. These signs fall from high-ranking members of Burning Legion (i.e. mobs level 66 or higher). These crowds can be found in Blade's Edge Mountains, Netherstorm, Shadowmoon Valley, and Kel'Danas Island. In Blade's Edge Mountains, the Death Door boasts the most compact group of mobs that fall Signs of Sargerass. Assuming that no additional reputation is earned from any other source, it takes about 1,320 Signs of Sargerass or 95 Fel Armaments to achieve sublime status from deserved status with Aldor. Fel Armaments can be transferred at any time to the high priest Ishana inside the Sanctuary of Infinite Light on the Rise of Aldor. Each turn in gives a reputation of 350 pounds with Aldor. In addition to reputation benefits, the characters will receive Holy Dust, a form of currency used to purchase shoulder enchants in the Aldor bank. Approximately 17 of them must move from friendly to honorable status. Transition Aldor can go from Scryers to Aldor, although this excludes the entire reputation reputation earned with the Scryers.
